

MORE THAN AN AUTUMN FARE

Our Correspondent Muscat

More than an autumn collection, Mirunal Khinji, fashion designer and consultant, calls it a collection to celebrate the forthcoming festivals. According to her, the new collection has been designed keeping in mind Eid al Adha and Diwali, the Indian festival of lights.

Simplicity with a twist seems to be the hallmark of her collection this time.

In this collection, Mirunal brings out her lehengas, sarees, anarkalis, kaffans in a good dose of pink, fuchsia, purple, navy blue, yellow along with colour palettes that are inspired by nature. Each piece can be worn in different ways and for different occasions because of stark colour contrasts, cuts and styles.

Adorning one of the mannequins displayed outside her boutique is a long kurta, which can be worn either with a lehenga or tight pants while the lehenga can be teamed up with an elaborate blouse. One can also find phenomenal borders that can be purchased alone to be stitched onto sarees, abayas, or one can bring the fabric for the border to be stitched.

The new autumn collection can be previewed at Mirunal's Boutique in Qurm on October 18 and 20.
